

RFRI PARTICIPATES AT FARMERS' FAIR

Rain Forest Research Institute, Jorhat (Assam) participated in the Farmer's Fair organized by Sugarcane Research Station, Buralikson of Assam Agricultural University on 21st November, 2015. Sugarcane Research Station, Buralikson, a commodity research station of Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat is situated at Golaghat district of Assam, about 45 km from Jorhat. The Farmers' Fair was organized to create awareness on the latest technologies applied to agriculture and allied sciences. Large numbers of farmers, artisans, students, local youths participated in the Fair.

RFRI showcased its various research and development activities related to forestry sciences at the Exhibition Stall. It displayed different materials on bamboos, canes, timber, insects, live specimens of bamboo seedlings. Information was disseminated on Noni and its cultivation and also its products. Visitors were apprised about the medicinal properties of Noni. They also tested the samples of Noni juice. Extension brochures on different subject were distribution among the visitors.

Sri Bibhuti Deka, Research Officer; Sri Debojit Neog, Research Assistant II; Sri Nilabh Chandra Das, Research Assistant II and Kumud Bora, Research Assistant II represented RFRI in the Fair.

